

Solo Play Rules

These rules allow you to play a solo game of Battleground Fantasy Warfare, where your opponent is as automated as possible. The opponent receives a larger army and other in-game benefits.

SETTING UP THE GAME

Use the rules for setting up a game found on pages 136-140 of the V4.0 Main Rulebook, with the following adjustments:

- 1) Choose Faction: choose both your factions and the opponent's faction.
- 2) Choose Points Budget: your army has a Points Budget of 2,000 points.
- 3) Choose Scenario & Terrain: we recommend for solo play that you play without terrain and play to the victory conditions presented below.
- 4) Build Army: assemble your army using the rules on pages 137-138. Do not build the opponent's army yet.
- 5) Deploy Units & Assign Standing Orders: deploy all of your units in the Player 1 Deployment Zone using the diagram found on page 140. Then assign Standing Orders to all of your units.
- 6) Choose First Player: you are automatically the first player, taking the first turn. (Note: you still only have half as many Command Actions on your first turn).
- 7) Choose Difficulty: choose one of four levels of difficulty to play: Easy, Medium, Difficult, Impossible. These will provide bonuses to the opponent that are explained in the following section.
- 8) Determine Opponent's Army, Deployment, and Standing Orders: roll a d6 and consult the table on page 3 of this document to determine the opponent's army. Then check the relevant page to determine the deployment and Standing Orders for the army.

PLAYING THE GAME

On your turn, follow the Battleground Fantasy Warfare rules as normal: gaining & spending Command Actions, moving your units, rolling attacks, spending Command Cards, etc.

During your opponent's turn, the opponent's units will move according to the Battleground Fantasy Warfare rules but with the following general exceptions:

- If an opponent's unit with a Range or Short standing order starts the turn with all its ammo boxes marked, the unit's standing order is changed to Close.
- If an opponent's unit starts the turn Routing, it will automatically Rally and get the Disrupted status.
- If an opponent's unit starts the turn Disrupted, they will be given the standing order they were given at deployment. (Note: if this triggers some other bullet point listed here, apply that immediately).
- If an opponent's unit starts the turn Engaged, any Movement Cap standing order modifier is erased.
- If an opponent's unit has the option to invoke the Indirect Path rule, it will do so only if it has a Movement Category 6" or higher. If the unit's standing order (or modifiers) reduces the its Movement Category below 6" then the unit will not use the Indirect Path rule.

Command Actions & Army Abilities: the opponent gains no Command Actions during its turn. This means it does not draw or play Command Cards and cannot use army abilities that require Command Actions.

Any army abilities that happen automatically (e.g. Ravenwood Nets) are used. Any army abilities that require a player's choice are not used, even if they don't require Command Actions (e.g. Vlachold Drain & Blood Powers).

Instead of Command Actions, the opponent gets certain benefits depending on the difficulty level:

Difficulty	Effect
Easy	No effect
Medium	Opponent's units get $\cancel{\text{A}}(+1)+0/+0$
Hard	As Medium, and opponent's units get $\text{A}+2$
Impossible	As Hard, and your units get $\cancel{\text{A}}(-1)-0/-0$

Golden Rule — The Most Beneficial Action: although we attempted to automate the opposing forces, invariably some situation will come up where a decision must be made by you (e.g. if an opposing unit is equally distant from two of your units).

In that case choose the action that most benefits the opponent. When in doubt, units with ranged attacks will target the weaker enemies and units on Close will Final Rush the stronger enemies.

VICTORY

The game ends when one or both of the following happens at the end of either player's turn:

- You have destroyed at least 1320pts of your opponent's units. You have won.
- Your opponent has destroyed at least 1200pts of your units. You have lost.

If both of these happen on the same turn, the game is a draw.

CREATING YOUR OWN BATTLES

The following pages detail the armies for you to play against and their standing orders, but you may wish to create your own army to play against. Following the below guidelines for creating the opponent's army and assigning standing orders:

- * Points Budget: the opponent has a Points Budget 10% higher than yours.
- * Assigning Standing Orders:
 - ⇒ Units with an Indirect Fire ranged attack: Short (if range 14" or less) or Range (if range is greater than 14")
 - ⇒ All other units: Close
 - ⇒ All units deployed in the front rank also have a Movement Cap modifier assigned to them equal to the slowest unit in the front rank.

OPPONENT ARMIES

After you have assembled and deployed your army (including assigning standing orders), roll a d6 and consult the table below to see which opponent's army you will play against. Then go to the relevant page for the deployment and standing orders of the units. Each section also includes if and when to change standing orders or other conditional events.
